[From the Paris Cosmos for August, 1865. Translated for the Portland Daily Press.]

EXHIBITION OF INSECTS.

The Agricultural and Economic Museum at Washington.

The exhibition, organized under the auspices of the Societe d'Apiculture, has been banished to the remotest corner of the Crystal Palace at the Champs Elysees. It would seem, at first, that it had been lost sight of in comparison with that of the Industrial Arts, which ostentatiously display themselves in the front or principal part of the building, while the lack of interior communication between the two exhibitions adds to the inconveniences of this seeming exile.

Each time that we visited this neglected wing of the building, we were scandalized by the small number of spectators, the greater part of whom seemed ignorant of the existence of a spectacle without a precedent in the annals of Entomology—the most interesting branch of natural history.

The Cosmos is in reality addressed to a chosen public, consequently it could not at once render popular an innovation so useful. Its mission has rather been to show that the exhibition of insects has borne many fruits in spite of the slight enthusiasm of political journals.

As soon as the resolution of the Societe d'Apiculture became known in the United States, the Federal Government gave orders to Mr. Townend Glover, the Entomologist of the Department of Apiculture, to repair to Europe, there to represent his nation, and to propagate the principles upon which the Museum at Washington is established. Should an intelligent public feel indebted to this effective exhibition for the knowledge of these facts of which we shall give a cursory resume, this fact alone should give the learned organizers sufficient cause to congratulate themselves upon the issue of their honorable undertaking.

Mr. Townend Glover has brought to our side of the Atlantic a work upon which he has been engaged for the last fifteen years, and the examination of which is rendered of greater interest from the fact that two or three years must elapse before the edition contemplated by the Federal Government will be in the hands of European readers. The book is composed of 130 plates, colored and designed by the author, and each containing from fifteen to twenty insects peculiar to the United States.

Mr. Glover has annexed to his work an index, arranged by the names of plants. If, for example, the reader searches for the article vine, he finds in answer, an enumeration of all those insects which destroy the vine. The numbers themselves refer to the plates and to the explanatory text, allowing one speedily to gather all the information relative to the peculiarities of these little animals, together with the manner of exterminating them.

About twenty plates in addition are devoted to the study of cotton—a plant of such importance to the agriculturists of the United States as to in every respect deserve this honor.

Mr. Glover is in the service of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, a national institution which has already rendered signal services to science and the public, though of very recent establishment.

Indeed, it was created by the immortal President Lincoln, who confided its direction to Hon. I. Newton, one of the most distinguished of American agriculturists. Notwithstanding the immense expenditures rendered necessary for the suppression of the rebellion, Congress immediately appropriated monies to a large amount, which were of the greatest importance for the maintenance of the Department.

The aim of the establishment is to furnish, gratis, every kind of agricultural information to those persons who may require it; and to institute a system of international exchanges upon the principles which were reduced to practice by the lamented Mr. Vattemare.—Four bureaux or divisions were therefore quickly formed.

1. That of Natural History in general, and of Entomology in particular.
2. That of Chemistry.
3. That of Horticulture.
4. Statistics relative to the condition of crops of all kinds.

The head of each of these departments is obliged to answer in writing, all questions which may be addressed to him from any part of the Union whatever, for the purpose of solving any problem relating to Agriculture. The chief of the Department, the Honorable I. Newton, is, in addition, commissioned to send seeds gratis to all who may demand them—as is the custom at the museum of Paris.

The Department also publishes two journals (which our museum has ceased to do); one, the Annual journal, contains the report of the general state of agriculture; and the other, a monthly report, is designed to follow the progress of vegetation.

The collection, though recent, already contains a great number of interesting objects, and is arranged upon a plan eminently practical and susceptible of imitation in Europe with the most complete success. Mr. Glover is especially charged, as we have said, to make this system of popular education known. We will confine ourselves, on this occasion, to noticing but one of these examples which he has pointed out to us, that we may render comprehensible the nature of those services which he is called upon to give.

The potato is there (artificially) similar in form and appearance to the natural bulb. He exhibits the different varieties which culture produces, together with information as to the soil for which each is best adapted. Their various diseases are likewise indicated, and the different insects which injure them, as well as the enemies of these insects. Besides these directions, references are subjoined in each case, which point the visitor to works in which he will find the description of whatever subject may interest him. Upon one side are arranged all the various commercial products which are derived from the plant. The same is true of each useful vegetable, so that the museum will be, as it were, composed of the elements of an immense number of monographs, which any one can amplify to suit his own necessities. The cases contain, besides very many other curiosities, such as a special collection of fibres and textiles; to these collections are annexed bibliographical indications, which we miss in our European museums, where the catalogues are as yet in a rudimental state.

We will mention, farther, the collection of the stomachs of birds, filled with the insects upon which each species feeds, and consequently showing the danger incurred if one is foolish enough to destroy the harmony of organized beings by a blind persecution of auxiliaries. This scheme was inspired by that absorbing love of nature which is peculiar to the American nation, and which is one of the crowning glories of Agassiz's adopted countrymen.

These things are worthy of the special study of those who are interested in the arrangement of collections, and who too often suffer the rarest specimens to remain buried in drawers, removed from the possibility of public inspection. May they also understand that something of practical utility, some ingenious grouping is always necessary, in order to call the attention of the people, who are, almost without exception, unable to comprehend the too abstruse chain of the geological series.

SPIRITUALISM VS. JUGGLERY.

SOME NEW EXPERIMENTS IN LONDON.

The London correspondent of the Dublin Daily Express says: "Dr. Lynn, the son of an English clergyman, following the bent of a roving disposition (with which English, in common with Irishmen and Scotchmen, are chargeable), at an early age left his country literally for his country's good, and has returned after eight years 'absence, skilled in every department of the occult art.' Whatever the Hindoo jugglers or the Japanese wonder-workers could impart he has acquired and his lissom fingers can accomplish. More important still, whatever the most highly-gifted of the spiritualists and their familiars can perform shrouded in darkness he can repeat, without confederate or mechanical contrivance, in the open day.

"Dr. Lyon, during a brief visit to London, with a view to make preparations for a winter's campaign (he is, I understand, to visit Dublin before settling down here), gave two private seances, at two of which I was present. Avoiding the toy-tricks of professors of magic who come from various points of the compass and astonish children of every growth his programme is stored with Eastern novelties, and his performance is the perfection of sleight of hand. The closest observer is baffled by his astounding dexterity, and the ease and grace with which the most difficult feat is accomplished are as admirable as the dexterity is marvellous.

"I will mention but one or two items. A graphic writer upon Japan some time since made the world acquainted with the most graceful and beautiful, and at the same time wonderful, of all the feats performed by the jugglers of that country. They were the top and butterfly trick. A top is set spining in the air; on its descent it is caught on the point of a sword, where it whirls merrily; then it is brought along the keen edge to the handle; then it renews its flight to be again caught; and ultimately it is sent, like a minature Blondin, across a silken thread which is invisible to the audience; sometimes it descends the slack, sometimes ascends the hill, but it is always sure of foot, and waltzes its way over the narrow path, from the boxes of a theatre to the back of the stage, as readily as across a drawing room. The butterflies are cut out of many-colored paper, and fly about as if endowed with life. In obedience to the wave of a fan they fly high or fly low; now they flutter over a lady's boquet, now they light upon the spray of a wreath, now they gyrate, moth-like, round a gas-jet. This feat alone is sufficient to take the town by storm.

"But what will be said of the greatest of the 'spiritualist' tricks, viz: the writing on the arm? Let me briefly state my own experience of it. I was requested by Dr. Lynn to write the name of any person, of any country, who has died since the world began. I did so in a remote part of the room, before leaving which I tightly folded the paper on which the name was written until it resembled a doctor's pill, and placed it on a table, where it remained in presence of, and close to all present except Dr. Lynn. That he did not touch it, and that he had no means of ascertaining what the name was beyond the meagre hint to be derived from a reply to his question of how many words and letters it consisted, I can positively vouch. Within two minutes the name was traced upon his arm, and in letters each if I may say so, was an enlarged fac-simile of my own. Five other names were written by different persons, and one was selected at random out of the five, and with a precisely similar result. On the previous evening thirteen ladies were present, as well as a number of professional men, lights of law, literature and medical science; a name was written by each lady, and thirteen times, to the unspeakable amazement of all present, the writing on the arm corresponded with the writing on the crumpled paper in the lady's hand. This was Foster's great spiritual trick; and it is to the credit of Dr. Lynn that he utterly disclaims and laughs at the idea of spiritual agency in its performance."

"POOR DEBTORS."

In the Advertiser of Saturday appeared a communication signed "Several Women," which was written for and sent to the Press but unavoidably laid over for several weeks. Just as we were about giving it to the compositor, with a few editorial comments, we received a note from the writer complaining of delay, and attributing its non-appearance, as we thought, to a dishonorable motive—the fear of influential party friends—and suggesting its immediate publication or return. Of course, we returned it, with a note saying that its publication, if inserted in view of the writer's note, might be considered as coerced, and we could not afford to create such an impression on the mind of any one.

Saturday it appeared in the Advertiser with a prefatory note, in which the writer betray some degree of ignorance of the rules which should govern every independent editor; which we are quite sure govern us in such matters. She is entirely mistaken in supposing we returned the communication in a "huff," and equally mistaken in supposing we were influenced by the opinions of others, for we know of no living man whose opinions we respect, with whose views on the question she touches we have the slightest acquaintance.

The Revised Statutes of 1841 contain the very provisions of law of which the writer complains, showing, by its antiquity, that no party considerations could weigh in any mind in relation to the merits of the law in question.

The writer is also mistaken in relation to the cost of a poor debtor's disclosure. She puts it at $100, certainly not less than $80. We are quite sure that in all ordinary cases—where there are few or no complications—the disclosure may be made, especially where the demand is a small one, for ten or a dozen dollars expense to the debtor.

As we have said on a previous occasion, there is no general law that may not result in individual hardship, particularly if unjust executors of the law happen to be entrusted with the matter. No doubt there are solitary cases in which honest poor debtors have suffered under our law, and been locked up by inexorable creditors, but we believe for every such case hundreds of cases may be found in which poor creditors have been swindled by dishonest debtors, who, after gaining credit to meet their alleged absolute necessities, have snapped their fingers in the faces of those who had befriended them, and told them to whistle for their pay. We believe it is quite time that poor creditors should receive some sympathy as well as poor debtors; and we are unable to see wherein our law is unjust. The debtor, if honest in his disclosure, can in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, secure a discharge for a small fee, and if he refuses to disclose, or, disclosing property that should go to pay his honest debts, refuses to give it up, we know not why a little coercion is unjust or oppressive. The imprisonment is not for debt but for obstinacy in refusing to disclose, or for withholding payment where he has property not exempt by law, from being used to liquidate his debt. There may be legal quibbles of which advantage may be taken to oppress an honest man; and if so, we will go as far as anyone to have them corrected, and to so modify the law as to take out of it, as far forth as possible, all liability of perversion and abuse.

We have no patience with those people who flippantly assert that the laws of our State are inhuman and oppressive towards the poor that poverty is punished by law as though it were a crime. It is not so. Our laws are almost wholly on the side of the debtor. The poor man has more protection in this State than in almost any other. A man's working tools, household furniture to a large extent work horse, milch cow, pig, yoke of oxen carts, plows, etc, are articles exempt from attachment, together with many other things while a month's wages of the laboring man is secure against trustee. In fact, the law allows the poor debtor more property than is often possessed by his poor creditor, whose goods he obtains and then deems it a hardship because compelled to pay for them.

Many a poor widow has been defrauded of her board bills and made to suffer, by fellows who would howl against the oppressive nature of the laws, should she, as they were about stepping on board a boat or the cars to leave the State, cause them to be arrested and required to disgorge for the beef and bread they had eaten at her table. We confess our sympathies are with the poor woman, and we have not a particle to waste upon the scamps who would consider it smart to defraud her. If the law is liable to abuse correct it but we believe the principle on which it is based is correct, and that to repeal it and allow repeal the exemption laws now existing, would be a great disadvantage to the honest poor man; and if we repeal one clause, to be just to the creditor we should repeal the other, also.

INFAMOUS.

From the very earliest period of the anti slavery agitation, the argument which was relied on by the slaveholder to finally silence his antagonist was, setting all questions of right and wrong aside, and considering merely the question of fact, "We have got these people among us—they are ignorant, brutal, dangerous—we have got to keep them down with the strong hand—if you come here and put ideas of freedom and equality into their heads, they will rise and murder us all in our beds—therefore you may pity them in silence as much as you like, but if you do not wish to see them cutting the throats of our helpless wives and innocent children, keep your pernicious notions from coming to their ears." And the abolitionist was silenced, if not convinced. He may not have believed fully in the danger, but he had heard of San Domingo, and he would not be ever so remotely instrumental in lighting in Southern homes the awful flames which laid waste that doomed and guilty island. The horrors of a black insurrection ever haunted the vision of Southern men, and made the cheeks of Southern women grow pale at every unusual sound.

Everybody remembers the phases which this subject assumed during the war, the outcry with which the idea of the emancipation proclamation was met by copperhead papers, because it "appealed to the worst passions" of this dangerous element in Southern society, "incited the slaves to rise," and all the rest of it, and the first proposition for the arming of black troops awoke the same clamor. Time passed on. The negroes, though the only loyal, were at the same time the only quiet and law-abiding class in the South. Thoroughly devoted to the Union cause, they let slip no opportunity to aid it, either by conveying information to the commanders, or by succoring escaped prisoners, they never damaged or compromised it by acts of lawlessness, though the families of their masters lay at their mercy, lifting no hand to harm them, only with a grand and heroic patience waiting for the great day of their deliverence.

In view of these facts we ask our readers to consider the following, which we cut from the New York World of recent date;

THE REWARD OF BLACK LOYALTY.—At any time during the four years of war it would have been possible for the negroes of the South, had they risen en masse, to have put an end to fighting, to have crippled hopelessly the Southern cause, to have made certain and immediate the restoration of the federal authority. The negroes of the South did not do so. Their labor supported their masters in the field. They worked on fortifications, and, except along the outskirts of the confederacy, lent no assistance whatever to the Union arms.

The radicals want to reward this intelligent patriotism by elevating the negro to a level with the white. They wish to manifest their gratitude for this exemplary loyalty by giving them the ballot.

Either the Southern negroes were capable of thus stopping the war or not. If they were capable, yet did not, what claim to the suffrage have they over the Southern rebels? If they were not capable of such a timely and patriotic use of their physical power, what claim have they to be trusted with the use of political power.

That is to say because the negro did not do that which copperhead defamers said his brutal and savage instincts would lead him to do, because he did not imbrue his hands in the blood of Southern women, and dash out the brains of helpless children, and give their homes to the flames, because he merely endangered his own life to hide, or stinted his own meal to feed the starving Union soldier or crawled through swamps and jungles to carry information to beleagured Union posts, because he waited till the government gave him a right to use his weapon, and turned it against his oppressor as a soldier, not as an assassin, therefore he deserves nothing at our hands!

Surely the baseness, the malignant meanness of such a suggestion would bring the flush of shame to the cheek of Satan himself. Even a copperhead ought to blush for it

LEMUEL GOODING.

This venerable citizen, whose obsequies were attended at the Methodist church on Chestnut street, Saturday afternoon, by the masonic brethren, and a large circle of friends, was born in Portland, October 14th, 1779; he therefore lacked but a fortnight of being 86 years old. His whole life was spent in Portland but the last year, when he became so feeble as to need the care of his children, who took him to their house in Chelsea, Mass., where he received their devoted assiduity and kindness, and where he died Sept. 25th. Mr. Gooding was the son of Richard Gooding, and a descendant in the fourth degree from James Gooding, one of the early settlers of the town, who came here from Boston, and for many years pursued successfully the occupation of a ship builder. He lived in a story and a half house at the foot of India street, near which was his ship yard; he was born in 1698, and died in 1780. His son James, born in 1722, married Hannah Sweetsir in 1743, by whom he had twelve children, the 6th of whom was Richard, the father of the deceased, who was born February 14th, 1754; he was by trade a mason, and built many of the early brick buildings in town, among which was his own, a three story house, on the south side of Federal street, now called the "Fulton Hotel." In 1776 he married Dorcas Bayley, the mother of Lemuel, the subject of this notice, who was brought up a hatter, and worked at his trade in a shop which stood on the north side of Congress street, where Brown street has since been opened. In my boyhood I have often watched the operations of this industrious man, as he pursued his daily toil, always cheerful, always patient, prompt and faithful. He afterwards went into trade on Fore street.

Mr. Gooding early became attached to the doctrine and discipline of the Methodist church, under the preaching of the Rev. Joshua Taylor; and in 1808, he was appointed one of the seven trustees who administered the concerns of that denomination, of whom he has long been the last survivor. When Mr. Taylor commenced his ministry in 1804, his society consisted of but eleven members, but they rapidly increased, so that in 1811, they erected the wooden church on Chestnut street, which after being twice enlarged was sold to make room for the elegant building which the society now occupies; and the denomination, from its humble beginning sixty years ago, has expanded sufficiently large to constitute in this city four societies occupying four church edifices, with an increasing demand for more room. All this healthy growth of an earnest and devoted branch of the christian church in our city, our deceased friend, a faithful and rejoicing co-worker, lived most happily to witness; and now, after a long well spent life, untarnished by calumny or reproach, having fought a good fight, has laid his armor off and gone to the rest which the faithful christian warrior will receive from the great Captain of Salvation whose lead he has followed.

"'Tis through the grave's dark door-way
We reach at last our home."

FATALITY OF FASHIONS.

It is a startling fact, that human life is shorter in New England with the existing generations, than it was in the last century. There are diseases amongst us which were hardly known then, and which bring thousands every year to a premature grave. What is the cause of this notable evil? Has our climate essentially changed? No—unless it be for the better. Our winters are not so severe, and our summers are more genial than they were before the Revolution. The cause, doubtless, is to be found in the corrupting fashions of the times which, with a rigorous fatality, dictate the food and dress of people, and which make idleness a condition of respectability, and honest, sturdy industry a shame. We deprecate those fashions that are rapidly leading our people to those excesses which have proved the ruin of other and earlier nations. It is high time that this subject was taken seriously in hand and looked thoroughly into by the conservators of public good, with at least as much solicitude and care as our politicians look for the causes of party success.

In olden times—in the days of the Revolution, when sons worked willingly in the forests and in the fields, and partook of the simple but substantial fare of their own farm; when daughters wore thick-soled shoes, loose gowns, and labored, with cheerful song, at the spinning-wheel, loom and wash-tub, such diseases as consumption, and dyspepsia were seldom or never known. These came as the concomitants of a republican extravagance! Doctors were rare acquaintances then. But now if a young man would be respectable, he must carry a green bag to Court, rather than a meal bag to mill; he must wield a yard stick rather than a hoe or shovel handle; and as for young ladies—alas! it would soil their lily hands and be an irreparable disgrace to be seen cleaning house or be caught at a wash-tub. Their shoes must be of kid, thin as wafers; their chests must be pent up in corsets as tightly as a Chinese foot, and their time must be spent in spinning street yarn, thrumming the pianoforte or discoursing sentimental songs. All these fashions are hostile to the laws of health and are prejudicial to human life. Oh, that Fashion would ever take directions from Reason, and invent those, and only those new modes of living and styles of dress, which have utility for their basis. Then might we hope in time to see the tables of longevity extended, and the people would enjoy an amount of health and comfort which are now too willingly sacrificed to a false goddess.

TRAXI.

EDITORIAL CONVENTION.—Upon the first page will be found a report of the doings of this convention. We were not present, not that we do not sympathize with the movement, but we have no confidence in it. Why? Last year, a scale of prices for advertising, &c., was adopted, and one was forwarded to us.—We commenced, at once, to work upon it, having before substantially adopted many of the rates. Very soon we learned from Advertising agents, (we did not believe all of them, for while smart, many are infernal liars,) that the publishers did not adhere to their own scale, and we became disgusted with such a state of affairs.—[Brunswick Telegraph.

The Press has never put its prices so low as the "scale" adopted by the convention.—We have our own rates, and if advertisers will not pay them we prefer to fill the space with reading matter. We take no advertisements simply to "fill up."

MATRIMONIAL INFELICITIES, WITH AN OCCASIONAL DELICITY, BY WAY OF CONTRAST. BY AN IRRITABLE MAN. TO WHICH ARE ADDED, AS BEING PERTINENT TO THE SUBJECT, MY NEIGHBORS, AND DOWN IN THE VALLEY. By Barry Gray, One Vol. 12mo, pp. 270. New York: Hurd and Houghton.

The subject of "Matrimonial Infelicities" has been, if we may be allowed the expression, so exhaustively treated by the lamented author of the Caudle Lectures, that whoever ventures upon that ground will be likely to incur the suspicion of being an imitator. Any one, however, who may take up this little volume with such an impression of its author, will find cause to change it before he has finished.—Barry Gray is not an imitator. He treats his subject in a manner, and from a point of view so different from those of Jerrold, that his claim to originality on that ground cannot be disputed. His humor is of the quiet and delicate kind, wholly without malice or bitterness, and his easy, colloquial style gives a singular charm to his pages. The work is beautifully printed, and tastefully bound. We predict for it as great a success as has been achieved by the author's last one, "My Married Life at Hillside."

It will be found at Davis Brothers.

OUR ARTIST IN CUBA. Fifty Drawings on Wood. Leaves from the Sketch-book of a Traveler, During the Winter of 1864—5. By Geo. W. Carleton. New York: Carleton, Publisher.

Mr. Carleton, who here figures in the double role of author and publisher, was sent to Cuba for the benefit of his health, and lounging there, the most unoccupied, but not unobservant of idlers, employed his facile pencil in putting on paper some of the sights which are presented to the eye of the traveler in the "Queen of the Antilles." Of these pictures the artist very modestly says, "Their only merit, perhaps, is their faithfulness to nature. Though chiefly caricatures, they represent such incidents and scenes as every one, with both eyes open, sees who visits Cuba; and being sketched upon the spot, with all the crispy freshness of a first impression, they possess a sort of photographic value, that, in spite of their grotesqueness, may prove more lasting than the entertainment which their humor offers."

These pictures are only etched with ink in a note-book, yet they are so full of rollicking fun, so characteristic of the warm, easy life of the tropics, that they are better than whole volumes of description. They are finely printed, on toned paper, and bound with exquisite neatness. No more choice and dainty morsel has been lately offered to the public taste than this elegant and attractive volume.

Bailey and Noyes have the book for sale.

BOSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Free Hospital for Incurable Consumptives.

BOSTON Sept. 27.

To the Editor of the Press:

Among the "Boston notions" which in some of their forms adorn and bless the city, must now be reckoned the Vernon St. Free Hospital for incurable consumptives.

It was established a year ago by Dr. Cullis, a young physician, who has devoted his time and means most generously to the object.—With no board of officers, and no system of solicitation, not a day has passed without one or more gifts. These have often come most unexpectedly, or at least with no reason to expect them except that trust in Providence which, as in the case of the Mueller Orphan House in England, has been the basis of this unobtrusive but most admirable institution.—At one time of perplexity, $500 was inclosed in a note, from I think, an unknown source.—

The only conditions of admission are real poverty and apparent incurableness, though kind care has in some cases restored those who went there to die. One returned soldier was necessarily declined admission, because he had $100 to put into the concern; though a friend not long after sent in, as it proved, the identical $100, as a gift, and then applied successfully for the poor fellow as "utterly penniless."

Last evening witnessed the dedication of an adjoining tenement, to be added to the hospital accommodations, grown too scanty for the multiplying applicants, though thirteen during the year have vacated their rooms for the silent land.

Rev. Dr. Huntington made a statement and offered a prayer of dedication; followed by Rev. Drs. Chickering, Bolles, Coolidge and Manning in brief addresses, and a poem from B. P. Shillaber, Esq., (" Mrs. Partington") which showed that he can be grave and tender as well as "gay and festive."

The music, by the choir of Emanuel church, was admirable, and the occasion one of deep and touching interest. OBSERVER.

THE MURDERED COOK.

Trouble between France and Prussia.

The recent murder of Ott, the cook of Prince Alfred, by a certain Count Eulenberg in Prussia, and the release of the Count without punishment by the Prussian authorities, excites much indignation in France, Ott having been a French subject. The Paris Journal des Debats of Sept. 11, says:

We flatter ourselves, for our country's sake, that the intelligent sabre cut of Count Eulenberg causes some anxiety at the present moment to Herr von Bismarck and his colleagues. Instead of chastising a shopkeeper of Bonn, a vile elector of Mommsen, who could only appeal to the Prussian law, and could have hoped for no other protection than that of the over-praised judges of Berlin, his undiscerning sabre has struck a French citizen, protected by the public law of Europe and our flag. The blood that has been shed will have to be accounted for to a proud and susceptible nation, which knows nothing of the privileges of the lieutenant-lieutenants of his majesty, the King of Prussia. Justice, we doubt not, will be done. May the lesson profit Herr von Bismarck, his colleagues and his party. May they conclude from the embarrassment which this sanguinary freak of Count Eulenberg causes them, that the mere civilian has not been created and brought into the world to form a subject of amusement for cavalry officers, and that even had M. Ott been only a Prussian subject, he ought not to have been cut down.

IMPORTANT ADMIRALTY SUITS.—The Chicago Republican reports that there are now pending in the United States District Court at Springfield, Ill., forty suits in admiralty, involving property to the amount of one million seven hundred thousand dollars. The most of these grow out of cotton seizures in the rebel States during the war, chiefly during the Red River expedition. The property having been seized by the navy was sent to Cairo and sold by order of court when cotton averaged over a dollar per pound, and the proceeds deposited in the United States Treasury at St. Louis, subject to order of court. The question is whether this property belongs to the Government, the navy, or to the claimants who have appeared since the seizure. These claimants are both Northern and Southern men, both loyal and disloyal. The points involved are many and intricate. Questions of loyalty, citizenship, agencies and international law are mingled together till a labyrinth exists in which lawyers only could delight to wander.

GENERAL GRANT.—The Cincinnati Commercial in describing Gen. Grant's arrival there says:—"The train thundered up; a few cheers were heard: the Mayor entered the sleeping-car, and in a moment reappeared, and with him a tight-built, somewhat chunky gentleman, wearing a wool hat and long brown linen duster, carrying in one hand a valise, and leading with the other a bright lad, perhaps ten years old. * * * The quiet figure in the wool hat and brown linen duster, with the valise and little boy, was not at first suspected by the crowd to be the central object of interest of the occasion, but a few had recognized the marked face, and when they had imparted the information to the others, the General was half-way down the river bank, and enthusiastic persons were quite too much astonished for the moment to get up a respectable cheer."

"The Republican papers in Maine do not publish the President's speech. Do they call it sustaining the administration?"—Machias Union.

The Portland Press and Bangor Times have published the speech to which you refer as well as several other papers, and when you wrote the above, you knew that you wrote what was not true; and did it to deceive those that did not know any better. But such a speech in a paper like the Union, is like a sermon of some old hard shell Calvinist Baptist in a Universalist paper, with notes of praise.—[Machias Republican.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

☞ It is a growing source of inquietude at the South that the town population is increasing so rapidly and the country is becoming so depopulated and unproductive. Not only the negroes but the white population are rushing into the cities, thus creating a scarcity of labor where it is most needed, and a surplus where there was enough before. Manufactures for the supply of the Southern market will, it is suggested, solve the question of employment.

☞ A living frog was found in a bed of hard blue clay, twenty three feet below the surface of the ground, in Leicester, Mass., last week. The heat of the sun warmed the dormant creature, and he hopped away in the most lively manner.

☞ The method of drafting in Brazil is to station, in the principal streets of the cities, military officers who lay hands on all unmarried men fitted for military duty. In this country even where "constitutional rights" were invaded and "arbitrary arrests" awoke the ire of copperheads, the conduct of the Administration was not quite so rough as is that of the authorities in Brazil. The men who said we had no country and no laws to protect them—who denounced Mr. Lincoln as a tyrant and a monster—ought to travel, in order to taste the sweets of liberty in other countries.

☞ The Norristown (Pa.) Herald replies to some abuse of Massachusetts by a democratic paper, as follows: "Massachusetts threw the tea overboard, and the first battle of the Revolution was fought at Lexington. She leads off in all reforms that result in the benefit of the people, and in favor of an intelligent government, and that is the reason why she is denounced by all demagogues, pot-house politicians, dummies, fools, traitors and copperheads."

☞ An association has been formed in Indiana for the purpose of introducing the Cashmere goat into this country. Sixteen of these animals have already been imported under the auspices of the society.

☞ It is the opinion of Mr. Tyndale, Secretary of State, that the census returns now coming in will show an increase of a million in the population of Illinois since 1860.

☞ The San Francisco Courier says: "The terrible corsair, or pirate, whichever it may be called, the Shenandoah, having need of supplies, sent a ship to San Francisco to procure them. The undertaking was successful, and the ship, loaded with provisions and everything of which the Shenandoah might stand in need, then obtained a clearance for Victoria. The whole was done quietly, discreetly, and, it appears, successfully—if we are to believe the American journals. It has also been stated that the vessel clearing for Victoria has not arrived at that port. The stories appear to be incredible, yet nobody can impugn their correctness."

☞ A Texas letter writer says: Any man in this State who does not own 400 head of cattle and 70 or 100 horses and mules, is worse than worthless. Beef sells here for five cents per pound, horses and mules from $15 to $30 for round lots, and are within 250 miles of a good market. As far as the eye can reach in every direction, and as far as you may go the country is alive with stock. The whole market of the United States might be supplied here, and there would not by any apparent decrease.

☞ Since the 1st of September, 17 National Banks have been authorized to commence business, making the total number of National Banks now in operation throughout the country 1,567, with a total capital of $398,012,723 50.

☞ A Kansas paper announces that 2,000 families of German descent, from Berks county, Pa., and from St. Louis, Mo., have through their agent, Captain Brunswick, selected extensive tracts of land in the valley of the Solomon. It is as fine a country as the world can afford; and as the settlers are industrious people, with considerable means, it will give quite a lift to Western Kansas.

☞ The alleged discovery of petroleum in Lake Superior seems to have attained some degree of probability, in spite of the geological objections to its existence. A company has been formed to test the existence of petroleum at Ontonagon.

☞ The Lawrence American is authority for the statement that an assessment of $20 per head has been recently laid upon every Fenian in the United States, which will realize the sum of five millions of dollars. Several of the best class of Irishmen have already left Lawrence for their old homes, most of whom are educated and experienced military men. There are over 5000 soldiers belonging to the fraternity in the English army.

☞ The question of the taxability by State authority of the shares of stockholders in the National Banks, will be argued before the New York Court of Appeals at its present session, which convened Tuesday. The question is of great importance, and if decided adversely to the banks by the Court of Appeals, it will doubtless be carried up to the Supreme Court of the United States.

☞ The Nashville Press says that cholera amongst cattle, which generally precedes the cholera amongst the human race, is prevailing throughout Tennessee. Cattle and hogs are dying off at a fearful rate, and a few cases closely resembling cholera have made their appearance in Nashville. Several cases of cholera have occurred at Memphis.

☞ The demand for all kinds of labor at St. Paul, Minnesota, is far in excess of supply. The St. Paul and Winona Railway advertise for 500 men; the Superior and St. Paul Road, 500, and the St. Paul and Pacific Road want men, horses, wagons and carts. The Minnesota Valley and Central Road want men to lay track, and carpenters are wanted to complete two large hotels, which are commenced, and several dwellings and blocks of stores in process of erection.

☞ Ten years ago, a young mulatto ran away from the plantation of Mr. Charles Ambrose, a sugar lord at Bayou Fourche, La., stealing himself—a piece of property worth a thousand. In the North, he amassed a fortune of a quarter of a million. A few days ago he went back to his old home, travelling in open daylight, with as little fear of bloodhounds and fugitive slave laws as if he was a white man—found his aged father and mother among the freed folks, and settled them comfortably, and presented a cottage and a piece of land to his widowed mistress, whose family had been beggared by the war. A very clever animal.

☞ A paper in Livingston county, N. Y., says that during a recent rainstorm the lightning struck ten telegraphic poles, one after another, a few miles north of Geneseo, on the Avon road, and split them into hundreds of pieces. One pole was split and scattered around for some distance, and one piece about eight feet long, carried over the fence into a lot some rods distant. The wire and glass cones were not injured in the least. Nothing but the poles seem to have been touched.

☞ An exchange asserts that, in old times, in Paris, Maine, there was a Justice of the Peace who lived remote from any other magistrate. SPECIAL NOTICES.

GREAT FIRE IN AUGUSTA.

AUGUSTA, ME., Sept., 22d, 1865.

Messrs. THOMSON & CO., NEW HAVEN,

Agents for Falconer's Patent Burglar's Fire Proof Safes.

GENTLEMEN,—On the morning of September 15th, instant, a conflagration visited our city, destroying nearly the entire business portion of our town. The destruction has been complete, and our city is now a mass of ruins. Our pluck and energy were preserved. The fire stands unparalleled in the history of Maine. We, in common with our merchants, suffered in the fiery ordeal. Our store, which was in the Freeman's National Bank Building, was early destroyed. Our citizens have suffered exceedingly from defective Safes—nearly all having been taken from the ruins utterly worthless, with the entire contents destroyed. We rejoice to inform you that our Safe, although not removed from the fire till the evening of September 20th, came out in good order and condition. The papers were all saved. The praise of your safe is on every tongue. It speaks for itself. The highest recommendation we can give it is to enclose an order for a new one of your make. We desire a No. 5, and would like it made as soon as possible.

We are, gentlemen, very truly yours,

GEO. F. POTTER & CO.

Some thirty Safes of different makes were tested in this fire, the contents of which, with one or two exceptions, were entirely destroyed. Here an excellent opportunity is afforded, at least for the business men of this State, to ascertain whether the Safes they are using, and so highly recommended by the makers, are really fire proof or not. Parties who are desirous of learning the particulars can do so by addressing the following, which is only a small part of the business men in Augusta, who have met with very serious loss by placing confidence in Safes which they had recently purchased in Boston, and which they had reason to believe were really fire proof: Messrs. Voss & Harley; Seth E. Beede, Esq.; Joseph H Manly, Esq.; P. F. Sanborn, Esq.; also Mr. Osgood, Agent for Eastern Express Co. Remember, gentlemen, that the Alum Patent Fire Proof Safe, manufactured by Valentine & Butler, of New York, has been tested in over two hundred and fifty accidental fires, ten of which have occurred within the past year, without a single failure. Second hand Safes taken in exchange.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION.

The exhibition of the Horticultural Society closed Friday evening, after having been handsomely patronized. Those who have attended the fairs of this Society, since its establishment, must have marked the great improvement that has been brought about in the growing of fruits, particularly of Pears, Apples and Grapes, and the cultivation of Flowering Plants, since its organization; and it is but justice to say that the show of the present year, notwithstanding the extreme drouth of the last two months, has been equal to any that has taken place previously.

We have been permitted to copy from the Secretary's record the following as the official awards of the Committees:

To Madam Wood, Alexander Pickard, gardener, for best twenty-five plants in blossom,	5 00
To Hon. J. B. Brown, P. Duffie, gardener, for best 12 specimens of plants in blossom,	4 00
To Messrs. A. & J. Dirwanger, for best 6 specimens plants in blossom,	3 00
To Edward Pennell for best single specimen plants in blossom (a new variety of the datura,)	1 00
To same for best five varieties new plants,	2 00
To T. C. Hersey, Esq., Peter Morrison, gardener, for best 6 varieties petunias,	1 00
To Capt. J. B. Coyle, Pierce Powers, gardener, for best display of gladioluses,	1 00
To A. & J. Dirwanger, for best display of fuschias,	1 00
To L. P. Pingree for five specimens of cactus,	1 0
To Hon. J. B. Brown for best display of coxcombs,	1 00
Mr. James H. McKenzie, after the Committee had made their examinations, brought in 12 specimens Coxcombs, "selected from 86 varieties," which were very fine, and to him is awarded a gratuity.
To J. B. Brown, best collection of Verbenas,	1 00
To Madam Wood for a "new specimen of plants worthy of note, the Scotch heather (Calluna Vulgaris) found growing wild in Cape Elizabeth,	1 00
To T. C. Hersey, for excellent specimen of the Torenia Asiatica,	1 0
To Madam Wood, best display of cut flowers,	5 00
To J. B. Brown, 2d best do do,	3 00
To Edward Pennell, best display dahlias,	3 00
To Mrs. McEwan, 2d best do do,	2 00

To Alex. Pickard 2d best do do,	2 00
To Mrs. L. Andrews, best basket wild flowers,	2 00
To Miss Croswell 2d best do,	1 00
To Mrs. J. W. Emery for best basket cultivated flowers,	2 00
To Mrs. Martha Fraser for 2d best do do,	1 00
To Mrs. J. W. Emery for best floral design,	3 00
To Peter Morrison 2d best do do,	1 00
To Mrs. C. S. King for best specimens balsams,	1 00
To Mrs. J. W. Emery for handsome funeral design,	1 00
To T. C. Hersey for best display vegetables,	4 00
To same for best 12 stalks celery,	2 00
To same for best 12 Ruta Baga Turnips,	1 00
To Capt. J. B. Coyle best 25 English turnips,	1 00
To same for best 25 parsnips,	1 00
To same for best three marrow squashes,	1 00
To H. P. Storer for best 25 carrots,	1 00
To same for best 25 beets,	1 00
To Charles Sampson of City Farm, best onions,	1 00
To same for best six heads Cauliflower,	2 00
To Isaiah Vickery, best 25 tomatoes,	1 00
To H. L. Paine, best Turban squash,	1 00
To Capt. J. B. Coyle, splendid Egg plant,	1 00
To C. Hersey, best six heads cabbage,	1 0
To same, best three pounds Strawberry tomatoes,	1 00
To same, best 12 sweet potatoes,	1 00
To same, best 12 ears corn,	1 00
To I. B. Long for fine sample French marrow squash,	1 00

[The weight of this squash was 113 pounds, and Mr. Long states that it grew, with others, from seed furnished by the Agricultural Department at Washington—that it had fine quality and flavor, and the Committee recommend that it be thoroughly tested in this district.]

To Seth B. Hilborn for excellent specimens yellow and snap corn,	50
To the Misses Jones for best six bunches foreign grapes raised in cold grapery,	6 00
To T. C. Hersey, best three bunches do do,	4 00
To Robert Lewis for best single variety do do do,	3 00
To Nathan Wood, best three varieties native grapes, open culture,	4 00
To Charles Sampson, of City Farm, for best single variety,	3 00
To Capt. J. B. Coyle for best six bunches grapes raised by heat,	5 00
To Hosea I. Robinson, for successful attempt in raising choice specimens black Hamburg and Golden Chasselas grapes in open air,	3 00
To Elbridge Tobie, for excellent dish Delaware grapes,	1 0
The splendid grapes exhibited by George R. Davis of the Iona variety, one of Dr. Grant's new seedlings, attracted much admiration, and the Committee considered them unsurpassed by any of our native grapes in flavor, and unanimously recommend them to the attention of grape growers.
Hon. Wm. Willis exhibited fine specimens of the choicest varieties of our grapes, both foreign and native, and excellent pears.
To Miss Sarah Gardner for excellent out door grapes,	1 00
J. Maxwell, Esq., had also superior specimens of grapes,
To William Moulton, Esq., for best display of pears,	6 00
To Mrs. H. J. Little for best eight varieties pears,	5 00
To Joseph Walker, best four varieties pears,	4 00
To Byron Greenough, best three varieties,	3 00
To Mrs. Sarah Gardner, best single variety of pears,	2 00
To Hon. J. B. Brown, best two dishes peaches,	3 00
To Edward Gould, Esq., best dish plums,	2 00
To Samuel F. Perley, Esq., best display apples,	6 00
To Capt. J. B. Coyle, best 12 varieties apples,	5 00
To H. P. Storer, Esq., best three varieties apples,	2 00

The dishes of handsome peaches from T. C. Hersey's, the splendid specimens of Louise Bonne de Jersey pears from Hon. Phinehas Barnes', the noble Beurre Clarigeaus from N. A. Foster, Esq., and the Flemish beauties of Crosman & Co., caused the Committee to regret that there were no more premiums to award.

The Committee in many cases had to decide on slight distinctions, hence the extensive display of Samuel Rolf, Esq., [who had taken the highest premiums on former occasions] although worthy of strong encomiums, failed of obtaining the first award.

J. G. Warren, Esq., exhibited pears and apples; Joseph Walker, and Sumner C. Rand pears; H. P. Storer, Esq., apples; Mrs. McEwan, pears; J. Maxwell, Esq., pears; Dr. Clark, pears, all of which were of a very superior quality.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.

JUDGE CLIFFORD, PRESIDING.

SATURDAY—In the case of Gardner vs. Portland and Kennebec R. R. Co. Mr. Bradbury of Augusta, made the argument for defendants, and Mr. Stinchfield of Hallowell, for plaintiffs. The case was given to the jury by Judge Clifford, with an able and elaborate charge. After being out until about 9 o'clock in the evening, the jury by order of Judge Clifford, was discharged, there not being the slightest prospect of agreeing upon a verdict.

MUNICIPAL COURT, SEPT. 30.

Charles Clark, Morris McDonald and Jacob Kramer, for drunkenness and disturbance, were fined three dollars and costs each. Their finances not being in a prosperous condition, they were unable to foot the bills and were, therefore, committed to jail.

Richard R. Duddy, on a search and seizure process, $22,26, fine and costs.

BANK DIVIDENDS.—The following Banks in this city have declared semi-annual dividends, now payable, as follows:

Bank.	Capital.	Dividend.	Am't.
Casco National,	$600,000,	5 per cent.	$30,000.
Cumberland "	$200,000,	5 " "	10,000.
Merchants' "	300,000,	5 " "	15,000.
Traders "	250,000,	6 " "	15,000.

The above dividends are independent of the U. S. income tax, which is assumed by the several Banks.

The First National (Cumberland), 2nd National (Mechanics'), and Canal National, hold their annual meetings in January, and declare dividends in January and July.

DIRIGO INSURANCE COMPANY.—This company, located in this city, has adjusted every loss but one, in which it was interested by the great fire at Augusta, and has promptly paid the amounts to the sufferers. The promptness with which the claims have been settled speaks well for the Company. In truth, the ability of this corporation is undoubted. The whole loss sustained by this office by the Augusta fire, will not exceed $20,000.

RETURNED.—Mr. E. Wheeler will return to his old stand in the Boston Railroad station to-day, where he will be ready to serve the public with refreshments as heretofore.

REV. HORATIO STEBBINS.—The Christian Inquirer for last week contains the following in relation to the late pastor of the 1st Parish Church in this city:

On the 4th of September, the first anniversary of Rev. H. Stebbins' arrival in San Francisco, his parishioners, anxious to testify their respect and affection for him and his family, surprised him with the appearance of a Committee, who presented him with a series of resolutions expressive of their earnest satisfaction with his services, and with a purse of solid gold containing four thousand dollars. This magnificent gift was designed to enable Mr. Stebbins to furnish his house, and to meet the expenses of his removal from Portland to San Francisco.

We hear but one account—not in the least surprising to those who know him—of Mr. Stebbins' success in California. The church is full of interested and edified worshippers.—Mr. Stebbins has appeared before the public in most of the various forms in which Mr. King exerted his talent, as a political or patriotic speaker, a lecturer, an academic orator, as the spokesman of the pioneers—an always honorable office in San Francisco—and in all had surpassed the expectations of his friends, gratified their pride, and satified their judgment. It is plain that one year has rooted him—as five years hardly roots any citizen or minister here—deeply and firmly in the rich California soil. His influence is high, broad and noble. His mission—one of the most critical and uncertain in itself ever undertaken—has proved an entire success. It would be impossible for his old flock in Portland to deny the wisdom of his removal from them, if they could see the breadth and importance of his new sphere, which so few men could fill, and which he perfectly fills. We rejoice to hear from the most reliable sources, that Mr. Stebbins' health, which at first was not good in the new climate, has quite improved, and that he has taken, with the best results, to horse-back exercise, which is the natural medicine of California.

FIRE.—A wooden dwelling house and shop, in process of erection on Fore street, near the foot of Chatham street, belonging to Michael Cunningham, was set on fire about 2 o'clock this morning and entirely consumed.

The small, wooden dwelling house, east of the above, occupied by John Sidney, was also destroyed. So rapidly did the flames communicate to it that but little of the furniture was saved.

In the rear of the above mentioned buildings, between Fore and Commercial streets, was the lumber yard and shed of Messrs. B. F. Noble & Co., containing a large quantity of dry lumber, a large portion of which was destroyed.

Adjoining this, was the wood yard of Mr. A. J. Merrill. He had a quantity of slabs and hard-wood burned.

The gallant efforts of the fireman prevented the destruction of much property. Steamer No. 1, Machigone, got the first stream of water on the fire.

FIRE ON A RAILROAD TRAIN.—One of the cars on a freight train between Gardiner and Augusta caught fire last Friday, from sparks from the locomotive, and before the flames could be extinguished a large quantity of goods were destroyed. The goods were taken from the steamer Daniel Webster at Gardiner, and were for merchants at Augusta. The car was a platform one, and was immediately in rear of the engine. The loss is estimated at from $5,000 to $10,000.

REV. EBENEZER HUTCHINSON, of Cape Elizabeth, died at his residence in that town, Sept. 29th, aged 47 years. He was a man of great energy of character, and of more than ordinary talent. He was an efficient officer in the 25th Maine regiment, and highly esteemed by all who knew him. His death is a public loss.

His funeral will take place at the Freewill Baptist Church, in Cape Elizabeth, to-morrow at 2 o'clock P. M.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—A young man was knocked down and robbed of a watch, on Gray Street, last evening, a little after nine o'clock. The hook of the chain was left hanging to his vest.

Since the above was written we learn that officers Charlton and Montgomery arrested the robber, who had in his possession some three hundred dollars in money, supposed to have been stolen. He was committed to the lock-up.

HARDWARE.—It will be noticed, by advertisement, that the old and long established hardware concern of Messrs. Chase, Littlefield & Co. has passed into the hands of Messrs. King & Dexter, who have purchased the stock and taken the warehouse, No. 175 Middle Street. The new firm intend to keep the establishment full up to the mark, so as to supply the wants of all callers for articles in that line.

FOREIGN EXPORTS.—The total value of Foreign Exports from this port last week amounted to $63,311.08. Included in the shipments were 1500 super box shooks; 6515 schooks and heads; 99,500 hoops; 637,457 feet lumber; 36,000 feet scantling; 1743 bbls flour; 6 do meal; 4 do beef; 1 do oil; 24 cases matches; 20 rolls leather; 100 dcz shovels; 2970 lbs machinery; 18 pkgs furniture.

GRAPE VINES.—Now is the time to secure your grape vines. The Iona is a capital outdoor grape and so is the Delaware. George R. Davis has received a few vines of the above-mentioned species, which may be had on immediate application at No. 53 Exchange street.

THEATRE.—The great drama of "Eustache Baudin" will be brought out this evening, Mr. Meldrum, Mr. Murray and Miss Lizzy Holmes sustaining the principal parts. The laughable farce of "More Blunders than One" concludes the entertainment.

SABBATH SCHOOL TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—The meeting of the Sabbath School Teachers' Association will be held this Monday evening, in the Vestry of the Third Parish Church, at 7 1-2 o'clock. The subject for discussion will be the same as at the last meeting.

MORRIS BROTHERS, PELL & TROWBRIDGE give their first entertainment with their minstrels, at City Hall, this evening. There will be a crowd in attendance to witness the "Trip around the world," which has drawn crowded houses in Boston, night after night.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS.—The semi-monthly meeting of the teachers of the city will be resumed this evening at room No. 9, City Building, at 7 1-2 o'clock. All teachers, public and private, are respectfully invited.

PORTLAND FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.—All monies deposited in this Institution prior to next Wednesday night will draw interest from the first of October.

THE American Illustrated Newspapers for this week have been received at the book and periodical store of A. Robinson, No. 51 Exchange Street.

VOCAL MUSIC.—Attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. Gardiner's advanced class in singing, which will commence next Wednesday evening at Congress Hall.

RESIGNED.—Capt. Herbert Sargent has resigned his situation as night policeman, and taken the situation of night aid to the revenue.

Surrender of Duke Gwyn and Gov. Clark.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.

The Tribune's Washington dispatch says a dispatch from Gen. Weitzel, in Texas, to the President, states that the notorious Duke Gwin, and ex-Gov. Clark, of Missouri, have crossed the Rio Grande and surrendered themselves, and are now appealing for pardon.

The Alabama Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.

The Times' special dispatch from Montgomery, Ala., 29th, says the Convention passed an ordinance by a vote of 59 to 16, practically abolishing the right of negroes to testify in courts of justice, to continue until legislation makes a law on the subject.

BY TELEGRAPH,
TO THE DAILY PRESS.

Washington Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.

A special dispatch to the Times from Washington, says certificates of indebtedness have been redeemed during the past week to the amount of $7,900,540, or about equal to the amount of Internal Revenue received during the same period. The sum of $40,961,648 in mutilated currency was also destroyed during the same period. The receipts of Internal Revenue on Saturday amounted to $1,851,708,08. Hon. William Orton, commissioner of the Internal Revenue, has returned to Washington after a short absence.

The Herald has the following in its special Washington dispatch:

The United States district Court, for the eastern district of Virginia, now in session, has been chiefly occupied during the last few days with confiscation cases. Libels have been only filed in such questions, and orders have been made thus far granting dismissal from the calendar of or upwards of one hundred cases on payment of costs.

Secretary Harlan, of the Interior Department, is anxiously endeavoring to inaugurate certain reforms in that department. On Saturday he addressed a circular to the heads of bureaus, in which he enjoins upon those officials his determination to exact as much labor and attention to the business of the government from every officer and employee in the department as if they were working in the Secretary's own interests and paid by him out of his own pocket.

Suits are to be instituted by the Post Office Department against post masters in the Southern States, who were in office at the time of the breaking out of the late rebellion, and are found to be indebted to the government.

The number of pardons granted last week will reach six or seven hundred.

Maj. Gen. Wool, Hon. Henry J. Raymond and Col. E. S. Sanford are now in Washington.

Col. J. T. Ingraham has returned to his duties as Provost Marshal of the defences north of the Potomac.

Pope Walker of Huntsville, Ala., Percy Walker of Mobile, and James L. Hugh of Florida, ex-members of the Federal Congress, have been pardoned during the week.

The 1st, 2d and 3d regiments of colored troops, which have been on duty in the department of the south and in Texas, are on their way to Washington to be mustered out of service.

Experience proves that a large number of gay young male citizens who went from the city of Georgetown and some of the river counties into the rebel army, take rank among the best class of citizens we have. Now that the war is over, and they have come home in this neighborhood, they are quiet and subdued.

The Herald's special Washington dispatch says that the consular office of the State Department has received a dispatch from the Consul at Riagus, Greece, chronicling the death of Alex McKowdater, who has been an organizer and systematizer of the political and social interests of Greece since the revolution, for an independent government. The deceased was President of the National Assembly, and for many years Prime Minister; and at different times Embassador of Greece to Constantinople and the court of St James.

It is believed that great proof of criminality will transpire in the trial of Weston and his son, recently arrested in New York for counterfeiting United States currency. Weston senior is an old offender, and probably a partner in the manufacture of many of the most successful counterfeits in existence, and may be used in the detection and conviction of other parties but little suspected at present. Some startling exposures are expected.

The Trial of Werz.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

The Werz trial proceeded to-day. Captain Wright, ex-quartermaster at Andersonville, testified that the tents of his regiment were taken for the prisoners.

He was unable to obtain lumber, as the planters had an injunction laid on him to restrain the cutting down of timber, that which was previously taken not having been paid for.

Baker—Do you know of any acts on the part of Capt. Werz to ameliorate the condition of the prisoners?

Witness—I cannot think of any; never heard that any soldier received a furlough for shooting Union prisoners; he had frequently carried vegetables into the stockade for the relief of the prisoners, after showing Werz what he had for them. Werz permitted masonic honors to be paid to deceased prisoners.

Judge Hall of Georgia, who had testified for the prosecution, was called as a witness for the defence. He said he was employed by a man named Dykes, against Col. Gibbs and Capt. Wright, to restrain them by an injunction from using Dyke's ground for burial purposes, and cutting timber on it. Dykes subsequently withdrew his bill voluntarily, when the witness used his influence to have Dykes paid by the Confederate Government for any loss which he might have sustained. Captain Werz had appealed to witness to prosecute some men who had been appropriating provisions and other things belonging to prisoners. He took out a search warrant to find the stolen property, but thought the process unsuccessful. Dogs are used in Georgia for tracking felons, violators of law and runaway slaves; but by the of laws that state no one could be pursued by vicious and savage dogs. The witness in the course of his further examination said that by the laws of Georgia it was made a capital felony to harbor or entertain Federal prisoners.

Cross examination—Witness said his sympathies had been with the rebellion. He was a secessionist and remained such at the close of the rebellion. He did all he could for it. Had not been active for the accused. Witness had not acted as counsel or adviser for Capt. Werz, nor had he advised how the defence ought to be shaped. He had not intimated anything about the defence any more than in his conversation as a witness in the case.

W. D. Hammock, of the rebel army, testified that he never saw any of his men shoot Federal prisoners, but had seen them after they were shot. Werz never, to his knowledge, promised furloughs for shooting prisoners.—No orders were issued to take from Stoneman's raiders anything more than money, knives and forks, and such other articles as they had stolen. Rebel soldiers were furnished just the same as Union prisoners.

The Commission here adjourned.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

A subpœna for Robert E. Lee was sent off this morning, and it is expected he will arrive here by the middle of next week. Howell Cobb, ex-Gov. Brown of Georgia, Joseph Johnson and Robert Ould are also subpœned to appear as witnesses for the defence in the Werz case. It is understood that Ould will testify in relation to questions of exchange of prisoners, and the counsel expect to show by him that it was not the fault of the rebel government that the exchange of prisoners was not sooner effected. In view of the notoriety of these witnesses, additional interest will be given to the proceedings.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue today ruled that publishers of newspapers, whose receipts therefrom exceed $1,000 per annum, should be licensed as manufacturers, and such license will cover all sales of these manufacturers at or from the place of publication, and also printing and sale of bill-heads, circulars, etc.

The receipts from the Internal Revenue today amounted to over $1,800,000.

During the past week the Treasury Department destroyed nearly $410,000 of redeemed mutilated currency.

It is understood that after the trial of Capt. Werz is ended and all the facts connected with the Andersonville prison ascertained, that there will be an investigation of the Salisbury and other prisons of the South in which Union prisoners were confined and maltreated.

It appears from the recently published foreign correspondence that the Chinese government, by a proclamation, prevented the Alabama and other rebel cruisers from entering its ports. The Board of Foreign Affairs would not permit them to do so, for the reason that a treaty of peace and amity existed between the United States and China, and that American citizens going there to trade should not suffer injuries from any one, nor their ships or goods be destroyed.

Alabama State Convention.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 30.

The State Convention adjourned to-day.

A memorial was adopted, praying President Johnson to grant a general amnesty and pardon to the Southern people.

A resolution was adopted declaring that,—

Whereas the people of Alabama have given unmistakeable evidence of their loyalty, they, therefore, pray that the President will withdraw the troops from the State.

The Constitution, as amended, was adopted. It provides that the Convention may be called together by the President of the Convention on or before the 24th day of September next.

Death of Rev. Dr. Wayland.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1.

Rev. Dr. Francis Wayland, who was for more than twenty-eight years President of Brown University, was prostrated by a paralytic stroke on Tuesday last, and died Saturday afternoon at 5 1-2 o'clock. He was 69 years of age. The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, at the First Baptist Meeting House.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Steamship Allemonia at New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.

The steamship Allemonia, from Southampton on the 20th ult., arrived here to-night.

The steamship City of Limerick, from New York, arrived out on the 18th. City of Washington, also from New York, on the 19th.

$900,000 in gold was brought from Australia for England.

The cattle plague was increasing in England. The London cow houses have been decimated.

The police have blockaded Parliament Street, Dublin, taking possession of the Irish People newspaper office. Twenty persons have been arrested. Several arrests have been made at Cork. The English squadron was still off Ireland.

The Times says that the information upon which the seizure of the Irish People office was derived from Washington.

FRANCE.

Accounts from the manufacturing districts are favorable.

The vintage has commenced throughout France. An abundant crop is certain.

PRUSSIA.

The government has issued a proclamation announcing the assumption by the King of Prussia of Duke of Laurenburg, and the annexation of Laurenburg to Prussia. The King promises to carry on the government of the Duchies in conformity with existing laws.

HOLLAND.

The Dutch Chambers opened on the 18th. The King in his address said foreign relations were favorable, the finances prosperous, and the harvest good.

THE EASTERN CONVENTION.

Earl Russell's letter to British Agents abroad censures the German powers, and says: Force alone is the power which has been consulted, and recognized violence and conquest are the only basis upon which Austria and Prussia have established the convention. England deeply deplores the disregard for public rights, and the legitimate claim of the people to be heard when the question effects their destiny.

RUSSIA.

Russia officially declares that she will maintain a non-intervention policy in the Scheiswig Holstein question.

Rights of Freedmen, in Courts, Recognized in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 29.

Gov. Sharkey to-day issued a proclamation accepting the proposition of Col. Thomas, Assistant Commissioner of Freedmen's Bureau of Mississippi, transferring the right of trying all cases in which the rights of freedmen are involved from the freedmen's bureau to civil authority, upon condition that the provisional government of that State will take for their mode of procedure the laws in force, except so far as those laws make a distinction on account of color. Negroes are also to be protected in their persons and property. They can be sued, and have the right to sue. They are also to be competent witnesses, according to laws of evidence. The News, in an editorial, denounces the act as encroachment upon the rights of the whites, and says that it will be repudiated by the people.

Opening of the Missouri and Pacific Railroad.

Poetry.

BY THE SEA SHORE.

Close by the side of the summer sea,
Idly dreaming one summer day,
Under the cedar boughs I lay:
And ever the scented summer breeze
Awoke in the fragrant cedar trees
A wonderful melody.

I watched the clouds in the azure sky,
Fanciful shapes of castles grand,
Floating over the sea and land,
And the darting sea-gulls soar and dive,
And the white-winged ships that seemed alive
As they drifted slowly by.

The waves broke low on the shining sand,
Scattering everywhere beautiful shells
Out of the ocean's mysterious cells;
And sentinel-like the huge gray rocks,
That had braved the storm and the tempest's shocks,
Guarded the beautiful land.

Afar in the east hung the crescent moon,
And the sun set low in the royal west,
Gilding the cedars upon the crest
Of the rugged cliff with a jubilant fire;
And the wind, which sung like a sweet-toned lyre,
Died away in a peaceful swoon.

And there came a ship toward the rosy shore;
Radiant all were her sails so white
With the glowing hue of the sun's rich light;
And I said, "He my ship she comes this day!"
And lo! while I spoke she passed away,
Like those which had gone before.

Ah! many a ship have I sent to sea,
With costliest freight that a ship can hold,
Hopes more precious by far than gold—
Sent them adrift in my boyhood's time;
And now in my manhood's joyless prime
They never come back to me.

A HIGH WIND.—Old Peter H——— lived in a one story wooden house of not very extensive dimensions, and when it was subjected to the force of one of those hurricanes so numerous of late years at the west, its power of resistance was insufficient to withstand so great a pressure, and it yielded the point without a struggle—however, it was not upset nor torn to pieces, but merely moved a few rods. In the course of the journey the stove upset and the fire split out, and the danger of conflagration was imminent. Old Peter was too much exercised to notice the removal of his house, and seeing the necessity of immediately applying water to the burning embers on the floor, he seized a bucket and dart d out behind the house, when great was his astonishment to find all traces of his west obliterated. After looking in blank astonishment a moment, he called out to his wife,—"Sarah, I'll be blamed if the wind has not blowed the well clear out of the hole! There's not so much as a stone left!"

When James T. Brady first opened a lawyer's office in New York, he took a basement room which had been previously occupied by a cobbler. He was somewhat annoyed by the previous occupant's callers, and irritated by the fact that he had few of his own. One day an Irishman entered. "The cobbler's gone, I see," he said. "I should think he had," tartly responded Brady. "And what do ye sell?" he asked, looking at the solitary table and a few law books. "Blockheads," responded Brady.—"Begorra," said the Irishman, "you must be doing a migaty fine business—ye hain't got but one left."

A Roland and Oliver conflict once took place between two Scotch managers, whose establishments were both in the same building—one having a theatre on the first floor, and his competitor a theatre in the basement. The basement manager got up the Battle of Waterloo as a spectacle, with plenty of gunpowder and very nearly blew up, whilst he all but entirely asfixiated the audience overhead. Nothing daunted, the manager on the first floor produced the Burke of Lamagan, with real water, with a view, as he candidly confessed "of drowning the auld devil underneath."

A young widow was asked why she was going to wed so soon after her husband's death. "O, ma!" said she, "I do it to keep me from freezing myself to death on account of dear Sam!"

HUMPHREYS'

HOMŒOPATHIC SPECIFICS,

HAVE PROVED, from the most ample experience, as the success; simple—Prompt—Efficient, and Reliable. They are the only medicines perfectly adapted to popular use—so simple that mistakes cannot be made in using them; so harmless as to be free from danger, and so efficient as to be always reliable. They have raised the highest commendation from all, and will always render satisfaction.

INSURE —WITH THE—
CHARTER OAK
Life Insurance Company,
OF HARTFORD, CONN.
Organized A. D. 1850.

J. C. WALKLEY, President.

Policies Issued on Life, Ten Year Non-Forfeiture, and Ten Year Non-Forfeiture Endowment Plans.

Losses Promptly Settled.

THIS COMPANY HAS NEVER LITIGATED A CLAIM!

DIVIDENDS ANNUAL.

THE Dividends of this Company are exactly what they appear to be, being payable at the close of each year, in cash when the Premium is paid in cash, and in cancellation of notes when notes are given.—On the payment of EACH renewal, commencing with the FIRST, a Dividend is PAID, thus adding the insured in meeting their payments by an immediate return. The ADVANTAGES of this system, over that of scrip Dividends without interest payable in four or five years, or "on note of the Directors," are obvious. No other Company has ever paid a Dividend in this way. The Dividends are equal to those of any Life Company.

Those intending to effect new insurance, or increase existing policies, will do well to examine the merits of this Company. Information from official sources for the past or preceding years cheerfully given.

TWO REASONS
WHY THOSE WHO
"Act Wisely"
SHOULD INSURE THEIR LIVES
—IN THE—
MUTUAL BENEFIT
Life Insurance Co.

1st,--IT IS THE SAFEST;

Because its net Assets exceed those of any Life Insurance Co. in the United States.

2nd,--IT IS THE CHEAPEST;

Because it is paying back to its members larger Dividends, and more of them, than any other Co. in the United States.

The necessary result is, IT COSTS LESS to insure but it than in any other.

☞ Comparisons will Confirm these Facts.

Those who really wish to know all the facts, vitally important to their own interests before paying out their money, are invited to call at this office, where every facility is cheerfully offered to understand the whole subject.
